Online Evaluation and Correction at Audisankara College of Engineering and Technology (ASCET): Leading the Digital Transformation in Academic Assessment.

Audisankara College of Engineering and Technology (ASCET) has pioneered the integration of online evaluation and correction, revolutionizing its academic assessment processes. This shift to digital tools reflects the college's commitment to innovation and academic excellence, enhancing both the efficiency and effectiveness of evaluations.

The online evaluation system at ASCET allows for real-time feedback, instant result processing, and secure, efficient assessments since the introduction of the online evaluation. Equally transformative is the online correction system, which enhances grading precision and speed. Automated grading for objective questions and an intuitive interface for subjective answers ensure a more personalized evaluation. Through a cutting-edge Learning Management System (LMS), it is also suggested by IQAC to deploy LMS for complete campus academic digitization and also suggested to introduce AI-based analytics provides insights into student performance, empowering faculty to make data-driven decisions and offer tailored deliverables.

This digital approach ensures transparency, reduces grading delays, and promotes a student-centered learning experience. ASCET's commitment to digital innovation is setting new standards in education, fostering a digitally inclusive campus where both students and faculty thrive in an ever-evolving academic environment.
